A Grant Proposal Seeking $4000 in Funding from Furthermore grants in publishing to Cover Publishing Costs on Behalf of UMass Press for Get Plum Island: Place and Politics in Massachusetts's Fight over the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge

Submitted by Michal Berlove, English Major at UMass Amherst, on behalf of University of Massachusetts Press

Table of Contents

1. Introduction……3
    a. Statement of Need……3
    b. Statement of Request……4
2. General Information……5
    a. Name of Organization……5
    b. Organization's Mission Statement……5
    c. Publication Title……6
    d. IRS 501©(3) Determination Letter……6
    e. List of Board of Directors, Regents, or Trustees……6
3. Publication Information……7
    a. Focus Area……7
    b. Subject Area……7
    c. Description……8
    d. Contents……9
    e. Publisher……10
    f. Author……10
    g. Contributor……11
    h. Editor……11
    i. Designer……11
    j. Format……11
    k. Illustration Data……11
    l. Sample Text……11
    m. Sample Illustrations……12
    n. Request……16
    o. Number of Copies……16
    p. Press Date……16
    q. Publication Date……16
    r. Proposed List Price……16
    s. Itemized Project Budget……16
    t. Total Publication Budget……17
    u. Grant Amount Requested……17
4. Additional Information……17
    a. Grant Requirements……17
    b. Other Information……18
    c. Appendix……19

Furthermore Program 2025+

The JM Kaplan Fund

1) Introduction

Statement of Need

The University of Massachusetts Press (henceforth known as UMass Press or the Press), the academic publisher for the University of Massachusetts Amherst, is a small press and has limited funds. Although the Press receives funding from the University, the funding does not cover the full cost of operations at the Press. Therefore, the Press runs annual fundraisers like its Regional Books Fund and participates in the UMass Gives Campaign. Although the Press can sometimes secure subventions from the author's academic institution, it also frequently takes losses on books.

Since its inception in 1963, the UMass Press has published books seeking to "enhance and reflect the values and strengths of the University and the Commonwealth." They publish in the "field of American studies…explor[ing] the history, politics, literature, culture and environment of the United States" (UMass Press). With many of the Press's books being targeted towards an academic audience, meaning that they sell fewer copies and seldom earn a profit on those titles, it is important to cover those costs by adding to the budget elsewhere. So, applying for publishing grants is important.

We are applying for $4000 in funding to cover indexing, printing, and binding costs for the forthcoming book Get Plum Island: Place and Politics in Massachusetts's Fight over the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge by Karin Martin. Coming in the Press's Environmental History of the Northeast series, the book explores the forgotten conflict over the establishment of the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge, offering a "timely case study in the politics of land, class, and conservation." While Martin's home institution, the University of Michigan, has committed to providing a $5000 subvention, the anticipated total cost of the book is $13660, leading to an estimated title deficit of $7181. Therefore, covering indexing, printing and binding costs is critical to the Press.

Statement of Request

We, the UMass Press, are requesting $4000 to cover indexing, printing, and binding costs for Get Plum Island: Place and Politics in Massachusetts's Fight over the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge by Karin Martin. Our authors are responsible for paying for their own indexing costs, which average $1500 per book. Covering this cost is crucial given the other expenses that authors face related to their work, such as travel and marketing fees. This grant funding will directly alleviate that burden for authors like Martin. Further, due to the many historic documents that Martin used, including illustrations and maps, the indexing is a key component of the book.

The printing and binding costs, denoted under the manufacturing and prepublication costs category, total $1452 and are another essential component of this work. High-quality printing and binding are important for both hardcover and paperback copies of this work. These elements both make a book look professional and ensure its longevity.

2) General Information

Name of Organization*

This name must precisely match the name of the organization on the IRS determination letter. If organization applying with a fiscal sponsor, use the following format: Fiscal Sponsor (Name of Organization).

Character Limit: 250

Our organization is the University of Massachusetts Press.

Organization's Mission Statement*

Character Limit: 10000

Founded in 1963, the University of Massachusetts Press publishes scholarship, literature, and books for general readers that reflect the quality and diversity of intellectual life on our campuses, in our region, and around the world. Serving interconnected communities of scholars, students, and citizens, the Press seeks to enhance and reflect the values and strengths of the University and the Commonwealth. UMass Press has sold more than 2,000,000 volumes since its inception, and currently has over 1,400 titles in print.

The Press imprint is overseen by a faculty committee, whose members represent a broad spectrum of University departments. New titles are approved by the committee after a rigorous process of peer review. The committee bases each of its decisions on the recommendations of the Press director and editors and on the written reports of at least two scholars in the field. Series editors also assist in this process (for a list of series, click here).

In recent years, the Press has focused primarily on books in the field of American studies broadly defined—books that explore the history, politics, literature, culture, and environment of the United States—as well as works with a transnational perspective. In addition to publishing works of scholarship, the Press produces books of more general interest for a wider readership and launched its regional trade imprint, Bright Leaf, in 2017.

Sales representatives include the Columbia Consortium (for bookstores in the continental United States), University of British Columbia Press (Canada), the Eurospan Group (United Kingdom, Europe, Asia, Oceania, Australia, Africa, and the Middle East). Warehousing and order fulfillment functions are handled by the Chicago Distribution Center. The Press is a full member of the Association of University Presses.

The main offices of the Press are located on the campus of UMass Amherst in East Experiment Station, at 671 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, MA 01003. The Press also maintains an editorial office at UMass Boston.

Publication Title*

Character Limit: 250

The publication for which we are applying for funding is Get Plum Island: Place and Politics in Massachusetts's Fight over the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge.

IRS 501(c)(3) Determination Letter*

Or Foreign Equivalency Determination Certificate.

File Size Limit: 3 MB

The IRS 501c3 determination letter is included in the appendix at the bottom of the application.

List of Board of Directors, Regents, or Trustees*

Upload a file or enter the list.

Character Limit: 10000 | File Size Limit: 1 MB

The list of the board of directors is as follows:

- Sari Edelstein, English, UMass Boston (co-chair)
- Britt Rusert, Afro-American Studies (co-chair)
- Jenny Adams, English
- Cameron Awkward-Rich, English
- Maria José Botelho, Education
- Samuel Redman, History
- James Smethurst, Afro-American Studies
- Caroline White, W.E.B. Du Bois Library
- Joel Wolfe, History
- Caroline H. Yang, English
- Adam Zucker, English
- MJ Peterson, Secretary, Faculty Senate
- Barbara Krauthamer, Dean, Graduate School
- Mary Dougherty, Director, University Press (ex officio)

3) Publication Information

Focus Area*

Check the primary focus of the publication.

Choices

Art, Architecture, and Design
☒ Cultural History, the City, and Related Public Issues
Conservation and Preservation

Subject Area*

List keywords or search terms which describe the publication.
Character Limit: 200

Search terms that encapsulate the publication are as follows: environmental history, U.S. wildlife refuge, class conflict, land conflict, federal land management, resistance to conservation, and Massachusetts history.

Description*

Enter or upload a summary of your publication including its intended audience. Please limit your response to one page or less.
Character Limit: 3000 | File Size Limit: 1 MB

The description of the book is as follows: An hour north of Boston, Parker River National Wildlife Refuge occupies the southern three-quarters of Plum Island, a barrier island off the Massachusetts coast. Parker River is a nationally renowned birding destination and the second most-visited wildlife refuge in the Northeast, drawing over 300,000 visitors annually. Today, environmentally minded Massachusetts barely remembers the decade-long fight that reduced the refuge to half its original size. Get Plum Island! tells the forgotten story of how six small towns in Essex County (Newbury, West Newbury, Rowley, Ipswich, Groveland, and Georgetown) fought the establishment of the refuge in the 1940s. Through political organizing across local, state, and federal levels, the opposition nearly abolished the refuge and ultimately succeeded in making it smaller.

The conflict was deeply shaped by class, geography, and competing visions of land use. On one side were elite conservationists—sportsmen, ornithologists, and preservation advocates from Boston, Cambridge, and Newton—who envisioned a federally protected habitat. On the other side of the conflict, a group of mostly middle- and working-class men, farmers, and local hunters organized a resistance to the establishment of a refuge. Through protests, public hearings, and even aggression toward visiting federal officials, local opposition made the case that their communities had clammed, farmed, and hunted the disputed lands before there even was a United States government. They recounted a version of their history as founders of the nation that made them, in their view, entitled to the land that was given to them by the English Crown. In telling this story, Get Plum Island! reveals how ordinary citizens can challenge—and reshape—federal authority, and offers a timely case study in the politics of land, class, and conservation.

The book is intended for both the academic community and a general audience. Through Martin's use of maps, historical accounts, and in-depth coverage of notable figures involved in the conflict, she provides a compelling read for both academics and everyday readers. Further, her clear chapter markings make it accessible for the general reader who may choose to only read certain sections.

Contents*

Upload a contents page if available. Otherwise, please describe the stage of development your publication has reached.

Character Limit: 1000 | File Size Limit: 1 MB

The photo below contains the table of contents.

Contents

List of Illustrations and Maps

Acknowledgments

Abbreviations

List of Recurring Names and Affiliations

Introduction

1 A National Wildlife Refuge for Massachusetts

2 First Conflict: No Monomoy before Plum Island

3 Mass Audubon: "The Unconscious 'Trustee' for the Government"

4 The Preservation of Duck Hunting

5 Newbury: For More than Three Hundred Years

6 Too Late: Land Grab

7 State Hearings: A Better Claim than the US Government

8 Taking the Fight to the National Stage

9 Congress to Abolish the Refuge

10 An Unexpected Gathering of Strength on Both Sides

11 Changing Political Tides

12 Compromise and "An Avalanche of Bitterness"

13 A Refuge that Almost Was

14 The Long Shadow of the Fight (& Why Sandy Point Isn't Part of PRNWR)

15 Conclusion

Notes

Index

Publisher*

If the publisher is different from the applicant, please also upload a letter of commitment from the publisher.

Character Limit: 100 | File Size Limit: 1 MB

The publisher is the same as the applicant, so this question is not applicable for us.

Author(s)*

Character Limit: 250

The author is Karin A. Martin.

Contributor(s)

Character Limit: 250

This volume was edited by Richard W. Judd and Ellen Stroud.

Editor*

Character Limit: 250

The acquiring editor on behalf of UMass Press is Brian Halley.

Designer*

Character Limit: 250

The cover designer is adam b. bohannon.

Format*

List number of pages, trim size, and type of binding.
Character Limit: 250

There are 288 pages; the trim size is 6.00 × 9.00 inches; the book comes in both paperback and hardcover editions.

Illustration Data*

List number and type of illustrations.
Character Limit: 250

There are 24 illustrations which are a mix of maps and other historical photos.

Sample Text*

Upload a representative portion of the text, such as chapters and/or introductory materials. File Size Limit: 1 MB

A representative portion of the text is included in the document below.

Plum Island Sample

Sample Illustrations*

Upload a selection of the illustrations to be included in the publication.
File Size Limit: 5

Impoundment

The photo above shows an impoundment built for ducks in the 1950s at the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge.

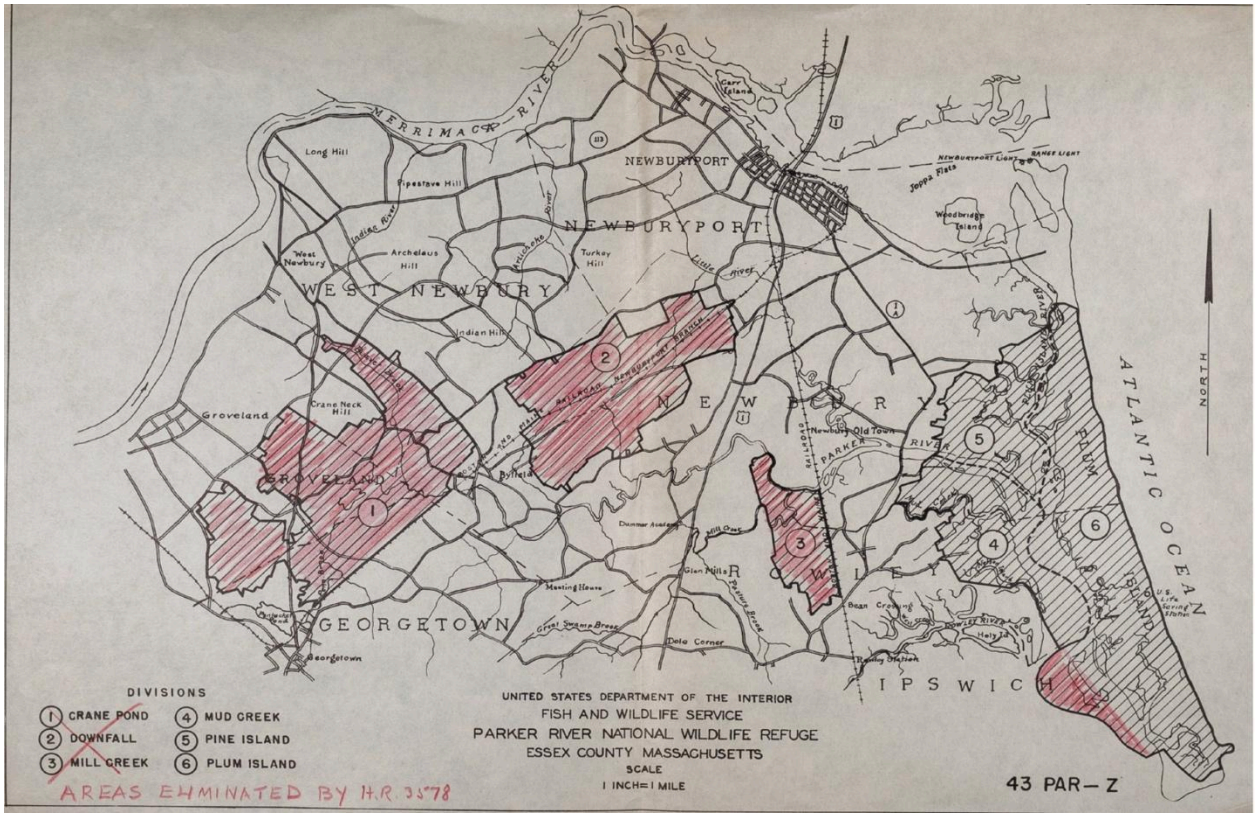
Clammers

This photo shows a group of clammers in Ipswich, one of the towns along the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge and partially protected by the Refuge's sanctuary. The effects of the Refuge on the clamming industry were a key element of the second round of congressional hearings about reducing or eliminating the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge.

© 1999 J.N. "Ding" Darling Foundation
— 1920 —
1930
EXTINCT AMERICAN SPECIES
BUFFALO
WILD DUCK
DODO BIRD
— 1940 —

What a Few More Seasons Will Do

This photo cartoon demonstrates what a few more seasons will do to the ducks, taken from the perspective of the land conservation advocates. It shows that in 1920, ducks are flying and one hunter is in the marsh. By 1930, the ratio of ducks and hunters are reversed: many hunters are shooting at one duck. By 1940, ducks are portrayed as an extinct species that belong in a museum with other extinct species.



Proposed Land Compromise Map

This hand-colored map depicts the outlines of the proposed compromise, including the three western divisions to be eliminated.

Request*

Please indicate how a Furthermore grant will be used.

Choices

Writing
Research
Editing
☒ Indexing
Photography
Illustration
Design
Rights and Permissions
☒ Printing and Binding
Translation

Number of Copies*

Character Limit: 250

The intended number of copies is 270; we intend to publish 250 paperbacks, 20 hardcovers, and 20 library e-books.

Press Date*

List the date the publication will be delivered to the printer.
Character Limit: 250

The intended delivery date is April 1, 2026.

Publication Date*

List the date the publication will be released to the public.
Character Limit: 250

The intended publication date is July 9, 2026.

Proposed List Price*

Character Limit: 20

The Press proposes listing the book for $32.95 for paperback copies and $99 for hardcovers.

Itemized Project Budget*

Enter or upload an itemized publication project budget. Please note: each of the expenses for which you are requesting funding must be shown in the budget.
Character Limit: 3000 | File Size Limit: 2 MB

I have attached two budget spreadsheets in the appendix below, including a title budget estimate and one with further information about royalty rates.

Total Publication Budget*

Character Limit: 20

The total publication budget for the book will be $13660.

Grant Amount Requested*

Character Limit: 20

We are requesting $4000.

4) Additional Information

Grant Requirements*

In the event a grant is approved, the grantee agrees to the following:

Both Furthermore and the J.M. Kaplan Fund must be acknowledged in the publication. Acknowledgment should be readily seen: both our credit line and our logo should appear on the copyright page in books. If a grant is given for an exhibition catalogue, our credit line and logo should also be placed on exhibition panels, listing us as a funder. We should be named as: Furthermore: a program of the J.M. Kaplan Fund (not as the Furthermore Foundation). Our logo may be obtained by emailing info@furthermore.org.

Please confirm your acknowledgment, placement, and wording with Furthermore and provide a brief email progress report every six months.

Upon publication, please send three samples to Furthermore, C/O J.M. Kaplan Fund.

Ticking yes below serves as agreement to these terms.

Choices

☒yes no

Other Information

Provide any other information you feel is pertinent to this application. This may include a letter of support or cover letter that describes the contribution of the publication to its field, the impact Furthermore funding would have on the project, and the plans in place to distribute the publication.

Character Limit: 10000 | File Size Limit: 2 MB

This grant proposal is innovative because UMass Press has not applied for this grant before and it has the potential to increase sales and reduce revenue losses. Funds that would have been used for publication costs can now be saved or allocated to further marketing, resulting in higher sales. Although UMass Press author Elizabeth M. Kalbfleisch received $2200 for indexing her book, she applied through her home institution, Southern Connecticut State University, so UMass Press had no prior connection to Furthermore.

This book is important because it provides an inside view into this decades-old forgotten controversy, which pitted conservationists against working-class individuals. Matthew McKenzie, author of Breaking the Banks: Representations and Realities in New England Fisheries, 1866-1966, says that by reilluminating this controversy, Martin "reveals that environmental justice is a concept that is fluid across space, time, and socio-economic class." Further, this work is a "counterintuitive environmental justice story showing how white middle class communities, using tools and resources unavailable to working communities, still had to fight dislocation at the hands of federal authorities." Thus, Martin's work provides a model on which modern-day conservationists can base their work.

The Press uses the Columbia University Press for its sales representation in the United States and the Chicago Distribution Center as its production and distribution coordinator. The distribution plan for this title is for the Columbia University representative to market this title to bookstore buyers, libraries, and wholesalers. Further, the Press has a marketing plan which includes strategic advertisements in literary magazines, book talks by the author, and sending advance reader copies to the media.

Appendix

The document below is the tax 501c3 determination letter.

Docusign Envelope ID: 39EC19FA-A6DA-4BF0-B9D2-647D4B6FEA31

University of Massachusetts
UMASS
Amherst • Boston • Dartmouth • Lowell • Medical • Law • Online

Tax Identification Number: 04-3167352
November 1, 2024

Tax Status Documentation

The University of Massachusetts ("UMass") is a part of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts' statutorily created system of public higher education. Massachusetts General Laws ("MGL") Chapter 75, Section 1 states: UMass is "a public institution of higher learning within the system of public higher education." UMass is one segment of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts' (the Commonwealth) higher education structure and consists of a five-campus university system. The system is comprised of campuses in Amherst, Boston, Dartmouth, Lowell, and a medical school in Worcester, with system administration in Boston and Shrewsbury. Chapter 75, Section One of the Massachusetts General Laws states: "There shall be a University of Massachusetts."

As a matter of state and federal law, UMass is an arm of the Commonwealth and, as such, it is a governmental unit exempt from tax under the doctrine of implied statutory immunity either as a political subdivision or as an integral part of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts (Commonwealth). The District of Massachusetts and the First Circuit have consistently held that the University is an arm of the state. See, e.g., U.S. ex. rel. Willette v. University of Massachusetts, Worcester, 812 F.3d 35, 39-43 (1st Cir. 2016). And Massachusetts unequivocally holds that "G.L. c. 75 makes clear that the University is an agency of the Commonwealth." McNamara v. Honeyman, 406 Mass. 43, 47, 546 N.E.2d 139, 142 (1989). Therefore, UMass' tax-exempt status is equivalent to the status of an organization tax exempt under section 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code (Code), such as a 501(c)(3) organization; however, UMass' exempt status is not dependent on Section 501(a).

As a public university, UMass exists to serve the public. UMass carries out this mission through its non-profit purposes of education, research, and service to the community. Under Code Section 170(c)(1), UMass, as a governmental entity, is an eligible recipient of charitable contributions for federal income, estate and gift tax purposes. Likewise, those charitable contributions may be deducted by donors for federal income, estate, and gift tax purposes. Such contributions and gifts are used by UMass exclusively for public purposes. UMass is described under both section 170(b)(1)(A)(ii) of the Code as an "educational organization" and under section 170(b)(1)(A)(v) as a "governmental unit," and as such, is classified as a public charity, and not a private foundation, under

333 South Street | Suite 400 | Shrewsbury, MA 01545 | P: (774) 455-7100 | www.massachusetts.edu

Docusign Envelope ID: 39EC19FA-A6DA-4BF0-B9D2-647D4B6FEA31

Internal Revenue Service

Date: June 5, 2007

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
% OFFICE OF THE TREASURER
333 SOUTH ST STE 450
SHREWSBURY MA 01545-4171

Department of the Treasury
P. O. Box 2508
Cincinnati, OH 45201

Person to Contact:
Ms. Lewis 17-56983
Customer Service Representative
Toll Free Telephone Number:
877-829-5500
Federal Identification Number:
04-3167352

Dear Sir or Madam:

This is in response to your request of June 5, 2007, regarding your organization's federal tax status.

Our records indicate that your organization may be a governmental instrumentality or a political subdivision of a state.

No provision of the Internal Revenue Code imposes a tax on the income of governmental units (such as states and their political subdivisions). Therefore, it has been the position of the Service that income of governmental units is not generally subject to federal income taxation. If, however, an entity is not itself a governmental unit (or an "integral part" thereof), its income will be subject to tax unless an exclusion or exemption applies.

One exclusion is provided by section 115(1) of the Code, which excludes from gross income:

> "...income derived from ... the exercise of any essential governmental function and accruing to a State or any political subdivision thereof ..."

Your organization's income may not be subject to tax, either because the organization is a governmental unit (or an "integral part" thereof), or because the income is excluded under section 115. In addition, your organization may also be eligible to receive charitable contributions, which are deductible for federal income, estate, and gift tax purposes. Also, your organization is probably exempt from many federal excise taxes.

Your organization may obtain a letter ruling on its status under section 115 by following the procedures specified in Rev. Proc. 2002-1 or its successor.

Your organization may also qualify for exemption from federal income tax as an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Code. If the organization is an entity separate from the state, county, or municipal government, and if it does not have powers or purposes inconsistent with exemption (such as the power to tax or to exercise enforcement of regulatory powers), your organization would qualify under section 501(c)(3). To apply for exemption, complete Form 1023 and pay the required user fee.

Docusign Envelope ID: 39EC19FA-A6DA-4BF0-B9D2-647D4B6FEA31

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
04-3167352

Sometimes governmental units are asked to provide proof of their status as part of a grant application. If your organization is applying for a grant from a private foundation, the foundation may be requesting certain information from your organization because of the restrictions imposed by the Code on such foundations. One such restriction imposes a tax on private foundations that make any "taxable expenditures." Under section 4945(d) and (h) of the Code, "taxable expenditures" include (1) any grant to an organization (unless excepted), unless the foundation exercises "expenditure responsibility" with respect to the grant; and (2) any expenditure for non-charitable purposes. Under section 4942 of the Code, private foundations must also distribute certain amounts for charitable purposes each year--"qualifying distributions"--or incur a tax on the undistributed amount. "Qualifying distributions" include certain amounts paid to accomplish charitable purposes.

Private foundation grants to governmental units for public or charitable purposes are not taxable expenditures under these provisions, regardless of whether the foundation exercises "expenditure responsibility." Under section 53.4945-5(a)(4)(ii) of the Foundation and Similar Excise Tax Regulations, expenditure responsibility is not required for grants for charitable purposes to governmental units (as defined in section 170(c)(1) of the code). Similarly, grants to governmental units for public purposes are "qualifying distributions", under section 53.4942(a)-3(a) of the regulations; and, if they are for charitable purposes, will not be taxable expenditures, under section 53.4945-6(a) of the regulations. Most grants to governmental units will qualify as being for charitable (as well as public) purposes.

Because of these restrictions, some private foundations require grant applicants to submit a letter from the Service determining them to be exempt under section 501(c)(3) and classified as a non-private foundation. Such a letter, or an underlying requirement that a grantee be a public charity, is not legally required to be relieved from the restrictions described above, when the prospective grantee is a governmental unit and the grant is for qualifying (public or charitable) purposes.

We believe this general information will be of assistance to your organization. This letter, however, is not a ruling and may not be relied on as such. If you have any questions, please call us at the telephone number shown in the heading of this letter.

Sincerely,

Michele M. Sullivan

Michele M. Sullivan, Oper. Mgr.
Accounts Management Operations 1

Docusign Envelope ID: 39EC19FA-A6DA-4BF0-B9D2-647D4B6FEA31

University of Massachusetts

UMASS Amherst • Boston • Dartmouth • Lowell • Medical • Law • Online

section 509(a)(1). As a governmental entity, UMass is not required to file Form 990, Return of Organization Exempt from Income Tax. See section 6033(a) of the Code.

UMass is legally responsible for its debts.

For more information, please see the attached governmental information letter that the IRS has provided in lieu of a determination letter. The IRS no longer issues determination letters to governmental entities.

Sincerely,

David Lowy, General Counsel

UMass is financially responsible for its debts.

Sincerely,

Signed by:
Lisa Calise
FF7FB5GEA02B46F...

Lisa A Calise, Senior Vice President for Administration and Finance and Treasurer

The foregoing information is correct.

DocuSigned by:
Martin T. Meehan
FAA6EB64DFDF4B1...

Martin T. Meehan, President

333 South Street | Suite 400 | Shrewsbury, MA 01545 | P: (774) 455-7100 | www.massachusetts.edu

Financial documents are available upon request, but redacted for public forums.